Italicised clubs withdrew without playing.

Bolded clubs received a bye in the preliminary round, entering the tournament in the first round.

Unranked associations have no ranking points and hence are equal last (shown as =last), with the exception of Réunion – which is 18th – did not enter a champion this year).

[1] The champions of Congo DR, South Africa, Sudan, and Tunisia were not given byes in the first stage although the runners-up were. Unlike European tournaments, seeding within the CAF Champions League is not performed in continental tournaments only.

[2] The 2007–08 Egyptian Premier League season was, formally completed on 7 June 2008, however, the following instead to play in the 2008–09 Arab Champions League. The third-placed Egyptian side, Al-Zamalek were not allowed to replace the champions as Egyptian regulations above only national champions and runners-up.[6]

[3] 2008 Réunion Premier League Champion, JS Saint-Pierroise, banned from African club competitions after withdrawing from the 2007 CAF Champions League.
